Don and Susan Welcome
You To Their New Home

Michael Wanzie, GayDayS.com staff writer

Don and Susan, at home and happy in the highly entertaining environment they are helping to create at the New Parliament House.

acquisitions caught the attention of the Westin Hotel corporation.

By 1990, Don found himself in Orlando sitting on the executive board of Westin Hotels and heading up the transformation of a Lake Buena Vista apartment complex into the immensely successful Blue Tree time share resort.

With Don came his long time love interest (now his wife), Susan Unger, whose background in interior design and lust for hands-on involvement in any project she tackles saw her taking charge of the room make-overs at Blue Tree.

The impressive make-over and sales record of Blue Tree netted Don and Susan an invitation, as Don recalls, "to go out to Vegas and talk to a little lady we think you might be able to help out."

The little lady turned out to be Debbie Reynolds, and in the blink of an eye Susan became her design consultant, once again transforming a previously-built property into a time share resort. Don took the company public and became CEO of the Debbie Reynolds Hotel Resort and Casino.

With no real previous touch-stone to the gay community, both Don and Susan were amused to discover how popular Debbie was with the gay market. One day, Don was stopped in the lobby of the hotel by two unhappy men who bemoaned the fact that the time share sales staff had refused to give them a tour of the facility on the basis

So how did a straight couple from Toronto end up owning the world famous Parliament House?

Don Granatstein was a CPA and a real estate investor who made his entry into the US marketplace in 1986 by acquiring an impressive array of shopping centers. His knack for making the right that they were not a couple. "Are you a couple?," Don asked without hesitation. "Yes!" came their instant reply. Don personally escorted the two men to the sales department, introduced them as a couple, and informed his sales staff, "We tour all couples."

The happy couple purchased a unit, and the seeds of thought were planted for what would soon blossom adjacent to the existing Parliament House – a gay time share resort of unparalleled design and luxury.

But, Don and Susan were never actually meant to buy the Parliament House... or were they?

In 1998, Don and Susan received a call from a potential buyer of the Parliament House who wanted to hire them to develop a time share if he purchased the property. Don and Susan agreed, and when the buyer failed to attract the necessary financing, Don and Susan made an 11th hour decision to acquire the Parliament House for themselves.

The night before they closed on the property, Don lay awake worrying about the dilapidated condition of the property he was about to purchase (and its steadily declining customer base), while Susan lay awake planning the removal of the poolside parking lot and the addition of a privacy wall and courtyard complete with lush landscaping, picnic tables and umbrellas.

That now famous courtyard is routinely filled to capacity by a party crowd who flocks to monthly theme parties featuring big-name entertainers such as Martha Wash, Abigail, Deborah Cooper, Ultra Naté, Mary Griffin, Franklin Fuentes, Ru Paul, and Grace Jones.

Don and Susan made the decision early on that if the time share resort was to be successful, they would first have to establish the existing Parliament House complex as a pleasant, safe, affordable, and highly entertaining place to visit.

They completely refurbished the entertainment complex

In short, the Parliament House is a great place to be and be seen.

adding several bars, a piano lounge, a showroom, a huge dance floor and a courtyard stage which now attract more than six thousand weekly visitors on a year- round basis.

The enhanced Footlights Theater presents what have arguably become the finest and most entertaining female impersonation shows of any gay showplace in the nation.

Chef Candi Annunziato was hired directly from Trump's Taj resort in Atlantic City. At the once nondescript Rainbow Café, the Parliament's resident lesbian has gained well-deserved accolades for her daily dinner specials which rival any upscale Orlando eatery in taste, price and presentation.

Chef Candi brings upscale dining to the New Parliament House.

In short, the Parliament House is a great place to be and be seen.

And in the center of it all, the highly-visible team of Don and Susan can often be spotted at their favorite table in the showroom. Their routine presence, along with Susan's fashion-plate appearance, not only sets a new tone for an evening out at the Parliament House, but also suggests these are owners who care about the gay institution they have acquired. Their fiercely loyal customers seem to have adopted this dynamic duo as honorary members of the gay community.

"We love this challenge," says Susan. "It's nice to feel appreciated for what we're doing here." Don interjects, "We've made a lot of new friends here and we love coming to work... we'd better... we're here seven days a week!" Don pauses for a moment. He smiles. Then in the self-satisfied tone of one who is truly content he adds, "This is our home."

soon... a gay time share resort of unparalleled design and luxury.

Ground breaking for the time share resort is slated for late Summer 2002. Lakefront and garden-view vacation apartments will be complemented by two swimming pools, an expanded Vegas-style theater, and 10,000 square feet of retail space. Owners will become VIP partners. Two additional Parliament House Time Share Resorts are planned to provide partners true vacation flexibility and value.

Survivor – Gay Days

Celebrating 12 years of wearing red & changing attitudes

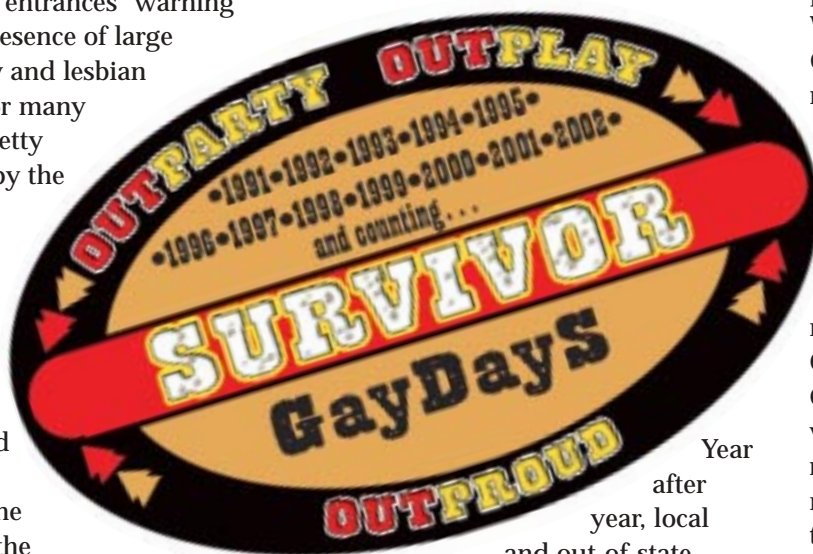

Since its inception in 1991, Gay Days has survived both criticism and indifference and has emerged as not just a survivor, but a winner. It's been attacked by the American Family Association, it's been besieged by undercover photographers attempting to covertly capture images of sexual misconduct in America's favorite family playground, it's endured the dire prophecies of Pat Robertson, and it has suffered the indignity of signs at Disney entrances "warning" others of the presence of large numbers of gay and lesbian visitors. And for many years, it was pretty much ignored by the press and Orlando's hotel/motel industry.

But today both the controversy and apathy have disappeared. The protesters and the warning signs at the Magic Kingdom entrance have been replaced by smiling cast members welcoming Gay Days visitors with unscheduled entertainment at the Castle Forecourt, expanded park operating hours, and a fireworks display usually reserved for the peak summer season and holidays.

Hotels and motels all over Orlando are signing the "Gay Days Friendly Pledge" and requests for interviews center around economic impact and entertainment value rather than conflict and comets from hell.

Gay Day becomes Gay Days

One sign of the event's refusal to die has been its relentless expansion. What began as a single-day visit to the Magic Kingdom has expanded to a nearly weeklong vacation celebration attracting more than 125,000 Gay Days revelers to more than 40 citywide events. Attendees from across the nation and around the globe will infuse an estimated $90 million-plus dollars into the local economy.

Year after year, local and out-of-state promoters like Mark Baker, Jeffrey Sanker, Alison Burgos and Pandora, and Watermark Entertainment have added new events and new life to the annual event. Local bar and club owners add to the excitement with special nights and expanded entertainment options aimed at Gay Days attendees.

But the growth of the phenomenal event was gangly and chaotic, with no central hub of activity, no Gay Days visitor's center, and most regrettably, no central agency to help visitors acquire tickets for the myriad of independently-produced parties and events. Gay Days was gaining popularity, but it was getting more and more difficult to plan for.

Web-Based Company Nets Gay Days Unity & Acceptance

When GayDayS.com launched in April of 1998, not only did Orlando's Gay Days gain an impressive state-of-the-art marketing tool, it acquired the first ever year-round staff of professionals (headed by Michael Wanzie) dedicated to establishing Gay Days as a fully recognized and respected addition to the Central Florida tourism and cultural calendar.

In 1999, GayDayS.com/Gay Days, Inc., was added (albeit with some hesitation by the OCCVB) to the membership roster of the Orlando/Orange County Convention and Visitors Bureau where it remains an active and respected member of this influential association.

The company is a member of the International Gay and Lesbian Travel Association, the Metropolitan Business Association and is a registered seller of travel in the state of Florida.

...it's endured the dire prophecies of Pat Robertson, and it has suffered the indignity of signs... "warning" others of the presence of large numbers of gays and lesbian(s)

Gay Days Wins - Detractors Retreat

In the end, persistence, tolerance, and economics won out. The espionage efforts have proven expensive and ineffectual. The Southern Baptist boycott has been pretty much a failure, and Pat Robertson's dire warnings of hell and brimstone have failed to set the city on fire. Now, hotel owners pay to advertise their properties, the media wants the facts on the economic impact, and the Mayor of Orlando and the Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners have offered Gay Days visitors a hearty welcome.

The real success of Gay Days is attributable to you, the Gay Days attendee... contributing to the success and growth of an event that's all about being you.

This Year, It's All About You!

Many people have contributed to the incredible success and unprecedented growth of this wonderful vacation opportunity: Doug Swallow of GayDay.com, the users of Compu-Who BBS, Orlando activist Joel Strack, long-time Orlando bartender Gary Allen, The Parliament House, the staff and volunteers of Orlando's Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Community Center, the Reunion boys from Tampa, party producers Jeffrey Sanker, Mark Baker, Watermark Entertainment, Pandora & Alison Burgos, Heaven Nightclub, Tony Hayden of Circuitdog.com fame. Without every one of them, this phenomenon we call Gay Days just wouldn't be the same.

But the real success of Gay Days is attributable to you, the Gay Days attendee. Whether you attend every party on the books, or just lounge around the pool enjoying the atmosphere, count yourself among those who contribute to the success and growth of an event that's all about being you. Put on a red tee shirt, head out into the Florida sunshine and have a gay old time!

WETPromotions Brings Explosive Talent

Trish Duncan has been in the party promotions business for almost three years. She has been blessed to work with some extraordinary individuals such as multi-Grammy Award winner Lauryn Hill during the 2001 WNBA All-Star weekend. Trish is also a marketing agent for professional athletes and entertainers. It's her marketing degree and extensive corporate sales background that contributes to most of her success. Trish's most recent company, WETPromotions.com, is definitely an erotic and intriguing name, however it best defines her clientele through its acronym which means Womyn, Evolving & Transcending. "I wanted to provide for my Sistahs what is offered in Washington DC, New York, Atlanta, and Los Angeles areas: a quality location, new and old school music, and exciting parties" This year Trish has confirmed one of the most explosive dancers in the country named Oohzee to perform on Friday, May 31 @ Four Points Sheraton Downtown.

Girls In Wonderland: Pandora Events and Alison Burgos

In 1999, Alison Burgos, Yesi Leon and Amy Alonso created KTG Productions and since have produced numerous successful women's events across the East Coast. Over the past three years Alison, Yesi and Amy have produced some of the most recognized women's events in S. Florida including Ultra Saturdays at the Sea Monster, Bang at Bongos, Pandora at Salvation, Girls In Wonderland at Gay Days and Women's White Party. Alison Burgos is also the founder and Marketing Chair of Aqua Girl, one of the most successful women's charity weekends in the country. All three women also currently sit on numerous non-profit organization committees including: the DHRF Women's Fund, Aqua Girl, Young Women in Network, Save Dade, the Gay & Lesbian Community Center and the Miami Gay & Lesbian Film Festival.

Mark Baker's Magic Continues With Lucky Number 7

The producer of the award-winning Colosseum party at Hard Rock Live, the Magic Journeys after-hours parties, and the VIP Party at the groove continues this tradition with the new Stars Party on Sunday, June 2.

Mark's parties are famous for their stunning aural and visual environments. His attention to the complete experience has won him high praise from across the circuit world. In fact, the Colosseum II party (Gay Days 2000) and Colosseum III party (Gay Days 2001) were named the Best Circuit Party for the past two years by Orlando's own Circuit Dog and Best Event of 2000 by Dance 1.

"My entertainment experience still defines what I want for each event — from start to finish," said Baker. "I want people to experience a seamless flow. I want each element to contribute to and enhance the overall effect." And what an effect it is! Don't miss Baker's incredible sound, dance and light experiences!

Blue Party: More Colors Of The Rainbow

Red has been the official color of Gay Days, but a new color is added as the House of Blues brings Grammy Award-winning remixer Hex Hector to Orlando for Gay Days 2002. Although other Gay Days parties have been produced there, this is the House of Blues' first year putting on its own event. Blue Party will be the first official circuit party of Gay Days 2002 on Thursday, May 30.

The House of Blues offers a world-class venue known for its comfortable and intimate atmosphere and state-of-the-art lights and sound. Known in the dance scene for its weekly sell-out dance event The Original Sin every Sunday, The Blue Party will provide the same quality experience.

You and your friends won't want to miss the inaugural year of the party that is adding yet another color of the rainbow to Orlando's Gay Days.

Beach Ball™ Watermark Entertainment Group, Inc.

In 1996, the publishers of Watermark, Central Florida's gay and lesbian newspaper, decided to create an event for the GLBT community that would be stimulating, positive and fun. They came up with a plan: they would rent out Typhoon Lagoon – the water park at Walt Disney World – and turn it into a wet gay wonderland the night before Gay Day at Disney.

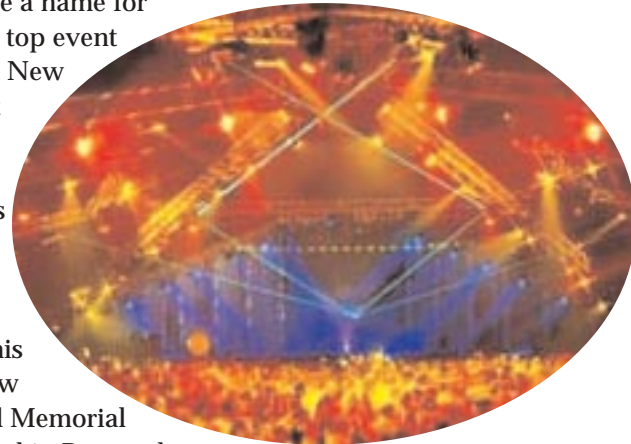

The first Beach Ball took place on Friday, June 6, 1997, and was attended by more than 2000 bathing-suit-clad men and women. Publisher Tom Dyer and Producer Keith Peterson wanted the atmosphere to capture the campy, sexy, and outrageous spirit of the community. The event was like nothing ever before seen in Orlando, or elsewhere, for that matter.

Beach Ball has since sold out to more than 6,000 attendees in each of the past three Gay Days. Now produced by Watermark Entertainment Group, Inc. (WEGI), Beach Ball 6, on Friday, May 31, will be the most spectacular ever.

Jeffrey Sanker & Johnny Chisholm = One Mighty Promoter Duo

This pair is known for throwing successful and unforgettable bashes. These include such events as the White Party Palm Springs, Snowball (Miami White Party) and Frequency in West Hollywood, just to name a few.

Sanker made a name for himself as a top event promoter in New York City at clubs like Studio 54, Private Eyes and the Palladium. Chisholm continues this with Oz New Orleans and Memorial Day Weekend in Pensacola.

It should be of no great surprise that these two men who are counted among the world's best party planners keep residence in cities with impressive partying reputations of their own. Sanker & Chisholm travel between Los Angeles, New Orleans and Miami – some of the ultimate party playgrounds.

This quality tradition returns in 2002 with One Mighty Party VI, staged at Disney/MGM Studios.

Heaven On Earth, Or At Least In Orlando

Heaven is the newest Orlando night club to host after hours parties featuring some of the hottest and most exciting DJs and visual performances from South Beach, New York, Palm Springs and Montreal, just to name a few.

Rodrigo and Rick created Heaven to give residents of Orlando and visitors to Gay Days the opportunity to experience this entertainment without having to leave Central Florida.

Don't worry if you aren't an angel, Heaven will still be the place to be during Gay Days.

What's A Girl to Do?

Looking for some girl fun at Orlando's annual Gay Days celebration?

We've got the scoop on where the girls are this year. This annual city-wide event attracts 125,000 gays and lesbians to everyone's favorite vacation destination and this year it's got a full slate of fun designed with women in mind.

Courtyard by Marriott Signs On as Women's Host Hotel

The Courtyard by Marriott Lake Buena Vista is located right next to the GayDayS.com Host Hotel, the Hotel Royal Plaza - it's walking distance to the Gay Days Expo and Ticket Booth, the Women's Welcome Reception and the Out for Laughs / Georgia Ragsdale comedy event. Free transportation to the 2nd Annual Women in Wonderland Party at House of Blues in Downtown Disney will also be available. This beautiful Downtown Disney area hotel is going to be "Where the Girls Are!"

editor's note: This hotel is sold out as of this printing! 2nd women's host hotel available - Embassy Suites Lake Buena Vista.

2nd Annual Girls in Wonderland Party Leads the Way

In 2001, when Alison Burgos and Pandora brought their party-producing skills to Orlando in the form of the Girls in Wonderland Party, the women's scene at Gay Days was changed forever. A glamorous venue, high production values and superb marketing skills brought over 1200 women together at XS Nightclub in Orlando to dance, play high-tech simulation games and enjoy the go-go dancers.

For 2002, this signature Saturday night party moves to House of Blues in Downtown Disney - one of Orlando's best-known party venues. National DJs, go-go dancers, special live performances and spectacular lights and sound await you.

12th Annual Gay Day in The Magic Kingdom

It's not about the rides or attractions. It's not about the parades or fireworks. It's about you — and your decision to walk proudly through the front gates of the world's greatest theme park as an openly gay, lesbian, or gay supportive individual.

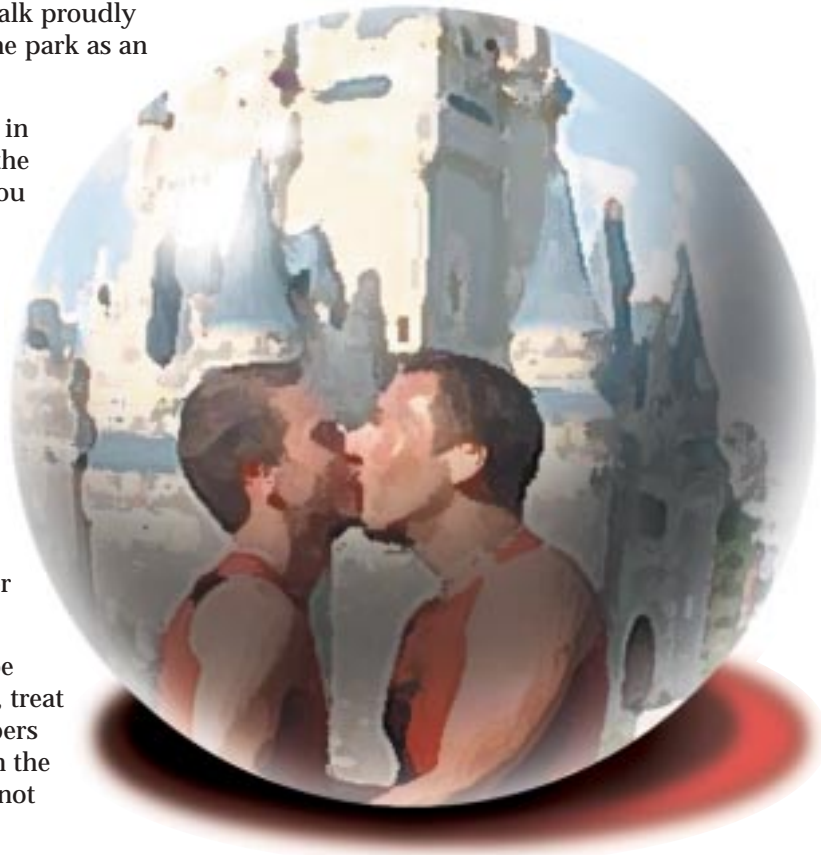

It's about seizing the opportunity to have your day in the sun without being relegated to the minority of the crowd. Today, you are not in the minority. Today, you constitute the crowd.

What is our stated purpose? To have fun. What is our hidden agenda? There is none. When you wear red, others will see you and draw their own conclusions. By the end of the day most will come to realize that we are "just people".

Don't be shy about holding hands if you have a mind to. Don't feel constrained to hide your affection for one another, but by the same token, remember that grand displays of physical interaction are never considered in good taste under any circumstances.

There are bound to be a few antagonists who will be waiting to point a finger and cry "foul." So, please, treat the Magic Kingdom park and all Disney cast members with the respect they deserve, and treat all others in the park with kindness, most especially those who are not kindly toward you. Take the higher ground!

Remember it's not us versus them. It is quite simply "we the people." Collectively, we are all part of the human family. We're just here to have fun. It's our Kingdom, too!

A magical kiss, in the most magical place of all.

Gay Friendly Neighborhoods

Jim Crescitelli, contributing writer

Thornton Park

This quaint, vibrant neighborhood in downtown Orlando is clustered around the intersections of Summerlin Avenue with Washington Street and Central Boulevard, the trendiest little area in The City Beautiful! Funky shops, chic services, and fun places to eat and drink (indoors and alfresco!) enliven this very popular pocket of Orlando. Lots of beautifully-restored homes and cottages from the '20s, '30s and '40s line the shady brick streets thanks to a revolution in renovation primarily attributed to forward-thinking LesBiGay real estate developers and neighborhood planners. The brand-new Thornton Park Central development features sparkling new shops, like Urban Think Bookstore, a cool place where you can read a book or catch the news while enjoying a glass of beer, wine, or a cup of coffee, and they've got a really comprehensive LesBiGay collection, too! Dish 'n' Dat on Washington Street features clever accessories for your home and plenty of colorful gift items for your friends. Thornton Park is just a short drive away from the Parliament House and only a few miles down the interstate from the Host Hotel Royal Plaza in Lake Buena Vista. Orlando's signature Lake Eola Park (gateway to the downtown area) is just around the corner, and 1 mile to the east is world-famous Southern Nights on Bumby Ave. Come on downtown and spend some time in Orlando's chicest neighborhood!

The Vi-Mi District: The home of GLBCC... and so much more!

The Vi-Mi (named for its proximity to the intersection of Virginia & Mills Avenues) is home to "The Center" (GLBCC) and a shopping district lined with many fine gay-owned and -operated shops offering LesBiGay-specific wares. Need rainbow apparel? LesBiGay books, cards or videos? You'll find it here along with great ethnic eateries, a LesBiGay cafe, and art galleries. Ritzy Rags / Baubles by Lee specializes in large ladies' sizes for the cross-dresser, trans-gendered, or drag queen. Stroll a few blocks north to meet the locals at the Cactus Club, where both ladies and gentlemen are always welcome to sip and chat at this favorite "family" watering hole. Looking for a coffee shop? Gay florist? You're in the right neighborhood with Jason & Paul's Coffee Shop and House of Flowers florist. And if you're looking for gourmet sandwiches and fresh entrees, try the Mood Swing Café, just down the street.

Gay Days Flirting Ends in Gay Days Wedding: Here Come The Grooms!

Their eyes met during Gay Days '99 while standing in line for the Tower of Terror at Jeffrey Sanker's One Mighty Party III at the Disney/MGM Studios.

They ended up riding in the same elevator together, and the rest is Gay Days history.

The fact that Jeffrey lived in Chicago and Steven in West Palm Beach could not deter what was meant to be. After all, as they soon discovered, they were both avid roller coaster enthusiasts, so they were meant to be together!

And together they were. In less than a year, Jeffrey made the move to Florida to create a home and build a new life with Steven and their two Jack Russell Terriers (Zero & Angel) and they have lived together as a committed couple ever since.

When we at GayDayS.com heard the happy couple intended to mark the 3 year anniversary of their meeting by quietly exchanging vows in the shadow of the Tower of Terror, we decided to give them a proper commitment ceremony witnessed by as many Gay Days-going friends as we could assemble.

Come be part of this Happily Ever After Gay Days event!

Be sure to sign the guest book!

Meet Brian Brege, GayDayS.com 2002 T-Shirt Design Contest Winner

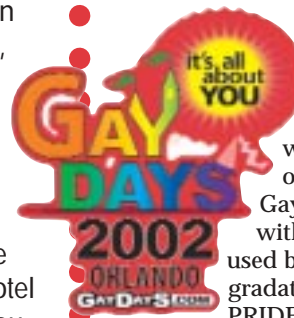

In 1987, I pocketed a degree in Communications Design and left upstate New York for the Big Apple. An internship with Milton Glaser led to an art director position at a publishing company and after 10 amazing years in NYC, I moved to O-town. I worked for "the Mouse" at Pleasure Island until I became the graphics supervisor at the Florida Chiropractic Association. I've designed logos for several up-and-coming Orlando companies.

I usually have a camera in-hand, love cooking, the beach, Halloween—and dirty vodka martinis with blue cheese-stuffed olives! Solid friendships are important to me. I met Skip three years ago on Mannequins' dance floor. Another love in my life is my dog, Maxie. I support the Human Rights Campaign Fund and the Humane Society.

I remember dancing at Mannequins June 5, 1999—my first Gay Days—noticing how varied we are, and still feeling the comfortable bond that ties us. "Walt's World" seems more magical that week! And to see how that kingdom's borders have grown just in the four years I've been here is truly remarkable.

This year's logo called for a departure from logos past, through use of more color and whimsy. With the input of the gang at GayDayS.com, I came up with this final design. I used bold fonts and a gradation of the PRIDE/rainbow colors for the lettering, and added whimsical elements—castle spires and a princess cap—references to the Magic Kingdom, where it all began in 1991.

I'm honored to have had my logo chosen for this year's festivities. During the week, have fun, be safe and be a proud and positive member of our ever-expanding "family." Remember, it truly is "All About You!"
